

Bob Robinson

“I have to get a new passport—mine is full.” He meant it literally, but it also holds true metaphorically. His life full of career twists, adventures and travels have been rooted in SEABROOK, where he was christened by his grandfather in 1937, and to where he returned almost 50 years later to join his father’s business. You can take the boy out of the community, but you can’t take the community out of the man, Bob Robinson.

- Dion McInnis

